Send Your Girlfriend To Camp II

The Trek Dirt Series (www.dirtseries.com) is a proven women's mountain bike instructional program that has traveled around Western Canada and the U.S. for the past nine years. The weekend school has taught new skills to more than 6000 cross-country, black-diamond and downhill riders from beginner to advanced.

Last year, the Dirt Series and Fox Racing Shox came up with a unique contest and asked Mountain Bike Action to get the word out. It was such a runaway success that when the call came in from the Dirt Series to do it again, we jumped at the chance. So here is how the "Send My Girlfriend to Camp II" works.

HOW TO ENTER TO WIN

Send an e-mail to info@dirtseries.com, with the subject line: Send My Girlfriend to Camp II. Let them know why your wife or girlfriend deserves to attend the camp and how having her attend will improve your life, too. The deadline is June 30, 2010, so you really need to act fast. The winner will be notified on July 10, 2010, after the Dirt Series' staff reviews all the entries.

WHAT THE WINNER WINS

The Dirt Series has sweetened the purse for this year's event. The grand prize includes a free entry to a Trek Dirt Series weekend skills camp, along with a 2011 Fox Racing Shox 32 TALAS RLC 15QR fork, a Yakima roof rack base system with two bike mounts, a Dakine hydration pack and a two-year MBA subscription. That's worth more than $2000, and it is so much swag that maybe your honey will share some of it with you.

THE SMALL PRINT

You can check out the camp dates and locations on the Dirt Series website (www.dirtseries.com). The winner is responsible for covering their own travel and accommodation expense.

Professional help: Trying to teach your wife or girlfriend can result in frustration for both of you. The Dirt Series removes the frustration and replaces it with smiles.

Hydrate with style: Dakine knows how to make riders look good and stay hydrated. This particular pack is built on a women's specific contoured harness.

Foxy prize: We have a test on the fork that Fox and the Trek Dirt Series are giving away on page 52. If you have any doubts, let's just say you won't be disappointed.

Take two: Yakima totally got the idea for Send My Girlfriend to Camp II because their contribution is for two bikes—a his and hers set. Time is tight, so write up your masterpiece and get it to the Dirt Series ASAP.
